MINOR LEAGUES WILL HAVE TO "HUSTLE FOR THEMSELVES."

National Baseball Organization Decides to Quit Protecting Its Present Wards.

JOHN T. BRUSH'S EXPLANATION

BIG LEAGUE WILL PAY NO DRAFT-ING FEES HEREAFTER.

Directors Adopt a Blacklisting Rule-Hart and Johnson Making Peace.

The board of arbitration of the National Baseball League has decided to abolish the national agreement, to take effect Sept. 30, and the board of directors of the parent baseball body has adopted a stringent rule which will blacklist all players who have "jumped" contracts with National League clubs, and also those who have disregarded the reservation clause.

President John T. Brush returned from New York yesterday and gave the information regarding the action of the board of arbitration, of which he is a member. During the afternoon he received telegrams from President N. E. Young confirming the action of the board, and also relating to the action of the board of directors in promulgating an order to blacklist offend-

The action of the board of arbitration is a surprise to the baseball world in general, Brooklyn-Boston and Philadelphia-New and many who have followed baseball do not comprehend the step taken by the major league. By abolishing the national Chicago, 17; Cleveland, 2..... agreement all minor leagues in the country | Boston, 6; Philadelphia, 0 hich have been under the protection of Philadelphia, 7; Boston, 1... that agreement will have to hustle for themselves after this season, providing, of course, another agreement is not made matter of history after Sept. 30 That is the date for the ten-year agreement to expire, and at this time there seems to be little hope of another agreement being made. Baseball men argue that if there were a possibility of another agreement being formed next fall there would be no occasion at this time to take action on the present agreement. Mr. Brush was asked about the action of the board of arbitration last night, an just now it will affect minor leagues. "It will mean that minor leagues wi have to get out and hustle for themselves. said Mr. Brush. "The National League wi now have the power to bid for players any league without having to pay th drafting price established for the protect tion of minor leagues, and can sign player without having to dicker with club owner in minor leagues. What protection will the minor league have now?" was asked. "They will have no protection under the Boston 92 national agreement after Sept. 30. They will simply have to do the best they can. They might form some kind of mutual agreement, but they will not have the protection of the National League. "When the major league is reorganized the coming fall will there be a new national agreement promulgated?" "That I cannot say, as it would be crossing a bridge before it is reached." A MATTER OF DEFENSE. Mr. Brush would not give a reason for the action of the board in abolishing the agreement. He merely said the board took such action as was deemed advisable.

It is believed the National League desires to better fortify itself against the American small cost as possible for next season. Some believe, however, it is a step toward an play-Nichols, McGann and Padden. Bases amicable settlement of the baseball war. Regarding the rule made by the board of directors Mr. Brush said the National League will live up to it and will blacklist all players who have "jumped" contracts with National League clubs, or may jump the League in the future, and will also blacklist all players who have disregarded the reservation clause with National League clubs. The reservation clause has been held invalid by courts, but the National League will blacklist all players who

President Watkins, of the Indianapolis club, was asked last night how the action of the National League in abolishing the national agreement will affect Indianapolis's prospects for baseball next season. He said he had not heard of the action of the board of arbitration, and had nothing to say on the matter. He believes Indianapolls is a good baseball town, and will try to place this city in a good league next

NEGOTIATIONS FOR PEACE.

Ban Johnson and President Hart Working for Harmony.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—The Tribune will say to-morrow: "Negotiations for peace in the baseball world are on between President Ban Johnson, representing the American League, and James A. Hart, representing the National League. Incidentally upon the success of the negotiations depends the post-season series of games between the Whitestockings and the National League, Unles peace is secured, it is said the national board of arbitration will not pass on the series, as President Hart will withdraw his defiance, owing to his failure to get en acceptance from the Whitestockings Ban Johnson, of the American League, and President Hart, of the Chicago team, have had numerous conferences of late, but nothing definite is known to have resulted | and Sullivan.

President Hart, when asked to-day concerning the probability of peace, said: "Although the National League is prepared to go along next season the same as now, I think some sort of an agreement would be to the best interests of organized baseball. BANK DIRECTORS SUED.

Another Case Growing Out of the Seventh National Failure.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.-A summons was served to-day in another sult against the directors of the Seventh National Bank. The plaintiff is a man named Hoffman who seeks $1,500 for damages sustained by him through the suspension of payment by the bank, and he seeks to hold the directors liable because of their alleged violation of the national bank act in loaning to Marquand & Co. $1,600,000, as in excess of the bank's paid-in capital. Mr. Hoffman aleges in his complaint that on June 4 he bought stocks through a brokerage firm and that on June 26 his brokers demanded more margin, which he furnished in a check on the Seventh National Bank for $500, sending this to the brokers at 2:30 p. m. When the check was presented for payment the next morning the bank had suspended payment and owing to his money deposited in the bank, $1,800, being tied up by the suspension, he was unable to furnish other margin and his brokers sold the stocks at a loss to him of $754, which involved further losses, for which he seeks $1,500 damages.

She will be taken at once to Erie basin, where she will be stripped and her racing mast stepped. It was at her anchorage overlooking the field where she is to give battle in September to the defender of the cup that the yachting sharps had their first glimpse of the new challenger by daylight. The grace and beauty of the lines of her slender body were marred by her cumbrous cruising rig and the litter and confusion on her deck as her crew were preparing to weigh anchor.
